

NCCI Profile

The NGO Coordination Committee for Iraq (NCCI) is a member-led organization established in 2003 to coordinate principled, collective NGO action in order to foster development, address humanitarian needs, and promote respect for human rights in Iraq and Kurdistan Region. NCCI has offices in Geneva, Baghdad, and Erbil thanks to support from funding from member dues, and from donor grants including OFDA, the Iraq Humanitarian Pooled Fund, and other donors. NCCI serves around 180 local and international NGO members & observers with coordination, advocacy, government liaison services, and NGO capacity building. NCCI also works closely with global forums such as ICVA, InterAction, the UK Iraq Working Group, and similar NGO forums around the world.

1. Coordination & Member Services

NCCI serves as the NGO focal point for internal and external actors. NCCI facilitates regular meetings between member country directors, HR & Admin teams, and advocacy leads. NCCI also hosts the NGO Early Recovery Forum (NERF) and is a co-coordinator for the Coordination and Common Services cluster (CCS).

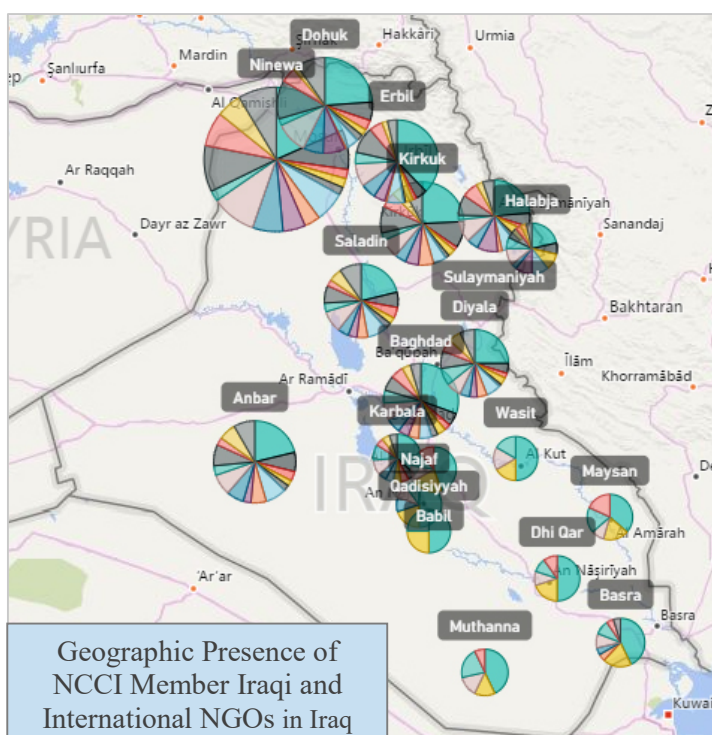

2. Advocacy & Collective Government Engagement

NCCI works to create the enabling environment for NGOs to advocate for the rights and needs of people in Iraq and Kurdistan Region. We do this through leading the NCCI Advocacy Working Group (AWG) and working directly with government partners in Baghdad and Erbil through a dedicated government liaison unit.

3. Capacity Building

NCCI is to provide services, advice, and capacity building to support NGOs and help them enable development, address humanitarian needs, and promote respect for human rights in Iraq.

NCCI seeks to be a partner and a useful resource to government agencies across Iraq. NCCI does not replace any government authority, and all NGOs do work directly with the relevant government authorities in Iraq and Kurdistan Region. To support this, NCCI collects information about the impact of regulations on NGOs and shares this with government authorities to help identify gaps and opportunities. NCCI guides NGO staff members on where to find the relevant GoI and KRG's government regulations, policies and documents. Finally, NCCI helps facilitate meetings between NGO leadership and government authorities to provide a direct way for government agencies to inform NGOs of regulatory and public policy practices.
